

Hi.
user1

Hello
user2

What do you think?
user1

I think both sides can be hypocritical.
user1

But I would say Republicans are more hypocritical.
user1

Honestly I think they both can be very hypocritical.
user2

They are all about individual freedoms and limited government.
user1

But then they try to regulate women's bodies, in terms of abortion.
user1

And they bend over backwards to give support to corporations.
user1

Instead of just letting the free market work.
user1

What do you think?
user1

I absolutely agree with that. I do believe they but their interest first and not care about opposing view points
user2

As for abortion, I think it's ridiculous how they defend so vehemently the existence of an unborn fetus but then once a child is born in poverty do not wish to take care of that child with welfare services and childcare.
user1

I have a hard time supporting many of their decisions, such as the supreme court justice pick. They wouldn't allow Obama to appoint a justice in his last term. But we're extremely quick to do it themselves in Trumps last months in office
user2

It's like they care about the fetus up until the moment it's born.
user1

Oh, yes, great point!!
user1

They would not like Obama appoint a justice which was his right as president.
user1

And then when it was Trump's turn would have had a fit if the same standard was applied.
user1

But Democrats are often no better.
user1

Making empty promises.
user1

Another great example is how harsh they were on Clinton for the email scandal.
user1

But how eager they were to defend Trump for his even more severe infractions!!
user1

They should have been calling for his impeachment too if they weren't hypocritical.
user1

They both have made very poor choices for our nation. I still find myself slight more aligned with the democrats because I find them a less hypocritical.
user2

Yes, I agree.
user1

Democrats do at least stick to some of their convictions.
user1

I mean, I strongly believe Trump should have been convicted in his second impeachment trail
user2

So do I. And if Republicans believed in what they said, they would have voted for impeachment.
user1

And if the shoe was on the other foot. The Republicans would have been on the streets calling for Impeachment
user2

Trump was such a joke to the Republican platform. He did not espouse their values.
user1

And yet they stood by him rather than concede to a democrat.
user1

I strongly believe Trump brought the Republican party way back
user2

He was the biggest example of a liar and hypocrite ive ever seen
user2

Yeah, he made a mockery of it in some senses.
user1

He was the epitome of hypocrisy.
user1

Saying one thing and then saying the complete opposite a week later.
user1

I'll never understand why Republicans would back him so blindly
user2

He once supported the democratic party too, lol.
user1

Me neither.
user1

Blind loyalty.
user1

I'm not here to say our current administration is wonderful because in my opinion its far from it. I am disappointed in a lot of things that been done. Im not afriad to say that user2